David L. Meyer Elected City of Fairfax Mayor

FAIRFAX, Va. — David L. Meyer has been certified as the Mayor of the City of Fairfax, following the Special Election held February 7. He was officially sworn in at 3 p.m. February 10 in the City Council Chamber in the City Hall Annex, 10455 Armstrong Street, Fairfax. His term will expire on June 30, 2018.

The city will hold a Mayoral Reception at 6 p.m. February 14 in the City Hall Atrium, and will conduct a ceremonial swearing-in of Mayor Meyer at 7 p.m. February 14 in the City Council Chamber, immediately before the February 14 City Council meeting.

David L. Meyer served five terms as a City Councilmember. In this capacity, he served on the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (MWCOC), as well as on the MWCOC Transportation Planning Board.

He served on the board of directors of Historic Fairfax City, Inc. and is a co-author of the book Fairfax, Virginia: A City Traveling Through Time. He was a member of the Livable City Task Force and the City of Fairfax Bicentennial Committee, and he served as president of the Old Lee Hills Civic Association. He was on the design committee for Daniels Run Elementary School and served as president of the Fairfax High School PTSA.

A city resident since 1981, he has actively supported the Appalachia Service Project and the Fairfax Police Youth Club. He is a member of Fairfax United Methodist Church. Meyer is also a Trustee of Randolph-Macon College. As a senior executive for the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Old Lee Hills resident earned the commission's Meritorious Service Award. He earned a B.A. in political science from Randolph-Macon College and an M.P.A. from American University.
